Verbal Description:

Three fragmentary ocarina chambers with connector holes; one chamber and hole are essentially missing, but just enough is left to see. The hole is 0.45 cm in diameter, 2.2 cm across, and the best preserved chamber is 1. The junction of the two ^{half} chambers can be clearly seen on the interior of the best-preserved chamber, as can the lip of clay from piercing the hole. One hole / stop to the exterior is partially preserved and 0.4 cm across. On the exterior there are the remains of an appliqueed element and a scar from where something popped off. There is also an orange slip in color, applied after the applique.
